OFFICE MEMORANDUM

Subject: Inappropriate transfer of RTI application in contravention of ^{of} Guide on RTI Act, 2005

The undersigned has been receiving RTI applications forwarded by DIPP under Section 6(3) of RTI Act, 2005 with the request to provide information on subjects not dealt by Office of the Economic Adviser. Further, such forwarded applications are also accompanied by a caveat requesting CPIO, Office of the Economic Adviser to transfer the applications to the appropriate CPIOs in case information sought does not pertain to the Office of the Economic Adviser.

2. In view of the above, attention is drawn to the standard protocol regarding Transfer of Applications as enunciated by DoPT in their Guide on Right to Information Act, 2005 (copy of relevant section enclosed). Para 5 of part IV of the Guide states that ".... if the Public Information Officer of the public authority is not able to find out as to which public authority is concerned with the information even after making reasonable efforts to find out the concerned public authority, he should inform the applicant that the information is not available with the public authority and that he is not aware of the particulars of the concerned public authority to which the application could be transferred. It would, however, be the responsibility of the PIO, if an appeal is made against his decision to establish that he made reasonable efforts to find out the particulars of the concerned public authority (emphasis added). Further it is also elucidated that "If no part of the information sought, is available with it but is scattered with more than one other public authorities, the Public Information Officer should inform the applicant that information is not available with the public authority and that the applicant should make separate applications to the concerned public authorities for obtaining information from them. It may be noted that the Act requires the supply of such information only which already exists and is held by the public authority or held under the control of the public authority. It is beyond the scope of the Act for a public authority to collect the information from various public authorities to supply it to the applicant. At the same time, since the information is not related to any one another particular public authority, it is not the case where application should be transferred under sub-section (3) of Section 6 of the Act. It is pertinent to note that sub-section (3) refers to 'another public authority' and not to 'other public authorities'. Use of singular form in the Act in this regard is important to note (emphasis added)".
3. It appears that a large number of RTI applications transferred to this office from DIPP in general and applications written in Hindi in particular violate the above guidelines in letter and spirit.

A sample of such erroneously transferred applications received from DIPP is tabulated in Annexure A. Since the Right to Information is implicitly guaranteed by Constitution and enacted by the Parliament through Right to Information Act 2005, CPIO, DIPP is requested to adhere to the above guidelines while transferring RTI application to other public authorities.

PART IV

For Public Information Officers

The Public Information Officer of a public authority plays a pivotal role in making the right of citizens to information a reality. The Act casts specific duties on him and makes him liable for penalty in case of default. It is, therefore, essential for a Public Information Officer to study the Act carefully and understand its provisions correctly. Besides the issues discussed elsewhere in this document, a Public Information Officer should keep the following aspects in view while dealing with the applications under the Act.

Applications Received Without Fee

2. Soon after receiving the application, the Public Information Officer should check whether the applicant has made the payment of application fee or whether the applicant is a person belonging to a Below Poverty Line (BPL) family. If application is not accompanied by the prescribed fee or the BPL Certificate, it cannot be treated as an application under the RTI Act. It may, however, be noted that Public Information Officer should consider such application sympathetically and try to supply information sought by way of such an application.

Transfer of Application

3. Some times requests are made to a public authority for information which do not concern that public authority or only a part of which is available with the public authority to which the application is made and remaining or whole of the information concerns another public authority or many other public authorities.

4. Section 6(1) of the RTI Act, 2005 provides that a person who desires to obtain any information shall make a request to the public information officer of the concerned public authority. Section 6(3) provides that where an application is made to a public authority requesting for any information which is held by another public authority or the subject matter of which is more closely connected with the functions of another public authority, the public authority to which such an application is made, shall transfer the application to that other public authority. The provisions of sub-section (1) and sub-section(3) of Section 6, suggest that the Act requires an information seeker to address the application to the Public Information Officer of the 'concerned public authority'. However, there may be cases in which a person of ordinary prudence may believe that the information sought by him/her would be available with the public authority to which he/she has addressed the application, but is actually held by some other public authority. In such cases, the applicant makes a bonafide mistake of addressing the application to the Public Information Officer of a wrong public authority. On the other hand where an applicant addresses the application to the Public Information Officer of a public authority, which to a person of ordinary prudence, would not appear to be the concern of that public authority, the applicant does not fulfill his responsibility of addressing the application to the 'concerned public authority'.
5. Given hereunder are some situations which may arise in the matter and action required to be taken in such cases:
 - (i) a person makes an application to a public authority for some information which concerns some another public authority. In such a case, the Public Information Officer receiving the application should transfer the application to the concerned public authority under intimation to the applicant. However, if the Public Information Officer of the public authority is not able to find out as to which public authority is concerned with the information even after making reasonable efforts to find out the concerned public authority, he should inform the applicant that the information is not available with his public authority and that he is not aware of the particulars of the concerned public authority to which the application could be transferred. It would, however, be the responsibility of the PIO, if an appeal is made against his decision, to establish that he made reasonable efforts to find out the particulars of the concerned public authority.
 - (ii) a person makes an application to a public authority for information, only a part of which is available with that public authority and a part of the information concerns some 'another public authority'. In such a case, the Public Information Officer should supply the information concerning his public authority and a copy of the application should be sent to that another public authority under intimation to the applicant.

- (iii) a person makes an application to a public authority for information, a part of which is available with that public authority and the rest of the information is scattered with more than one other public authorities. In such a case, the Public Information Officer of the public authority receiving the application should give information relating to it and advise the applicant to make separate applications to the concerned public authorities for obtaining information from them. If no part of the information sought, is available with it but is scattered with more than one other public authorities, the Public Information Officer should inform the applicant that information is not available with the public authority and that the applicant should make separate applications to the concerned public authorities for obtaining information from them. It may be noted that the Act requires the supply of such information only which already exists and is held by the public authority or held under the control of the public authority. It is beyond the scope of the Act for a public authority to collect the information from various public authorities to supply it to the applicant. At the same time, since the information is not related to any one another particular public authority, it is not the case where application should be transferred under sub-section (3) of Section 6 of the Act. It is pertinent to note that sub-section (3) refers to 'another public authority' and not to 'other public authorities'. Use of singular form in the Act in this regard is important to note.
- (iv) if a person makes an application to a public authority of Central Government for some information which is the concern of a public authority under any State Government or the Union Territory Administration, the Public Information Officer of the public authority receiving the application should inform the applicant that the information may be had from the concerned State Government/UT Administration. Application, in such a case, need not be transferred to the State Government/UT Administration.
6. In brief, if the application is accompanied by the prescribed fee or the Below Poverty Line Certificate, the Public Information Officer should check whether the subject matter of the application or a part thereof concerns some other public authority. If the subject matter of the application concerns any other public authority, it should be transferred to that public authority. If only a part of the application concerns the other public authority, a copy of the application may be sent to that public authority, clearly specifying the part which relates to that

1.	Methodology adopted for determination of the Coal Escalation rate for Non-Coking Coal.	The compilation/calculation and methodology of Wholesale Price Index is as follows:- <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Compilation of Wholesale Price Index is done in stages. In the first stage, price relative for each price quotation is calculated. Price relative is calculated as the ratio of the current price (PI) to the base price (PO) multiplied by 100 i.e. (P1/Po) x 100. • In the next stage, commodity /item level index is arrived at as the simple arithmetic mean of the price relatives of all the quotations included under that commodity/item. • Next, the indices for the sub-groups/groups/major groups are compiled on the principle of weighted arithmetic mean according to the Laspeyre's formula, which has fixed base year weights operating through the entire life span of the series. • The wholesale prices reflect transactions at the first point of sale and includes Central Excise Duty net of Trade Discount and exclude rebate if any, other Taxes and Levies. Detailed methodology also can be downloaded from WPI compilation manual in the website of OEA (www.eaindustry.nic.in). 2. It is informed that this office has no information on the issue under the RTI application. However, it appears that the present Tariff Commission in India may be able to provide appropriate information on this matter since the objectives of Tariff Commission as per the website are:

- i. Impact analysis of tariff changes on competitiveness of domestic industry and to identify policy measures to promote their international competitiveness in light of the new manufacturing policy.
- ii. Facilitation of modulating the tariff structures and also redressing the issue as relates to Inverted duty structure which adversely impact the domestic manufacturers.

पृ-२

- iii. Conducting studies related to techno-economic feasibility, cost pricing, competitiveness, input-output norms etc. aspects of various products referred by Ministries/Department from time to time.

Further Bureau of Industrial Cost and Prices (BICP) was merged with the present Tariff Commission in 1999 along with its core function.

In view of the above the present application is transferred in original to Tariff Commission under Section 6 (3) of RTI Act 2005 (copy enclosed).

Para 5 of part IV of the Guide states that "...if the Public Information Officer of the public authority is not able to find out as to which public authority is concerned with the information even after making reasonable efforts to find out the concerned public authority, he should inform the applicant that the information is not available with the public authority and that he is not aware of the particulars of the concerned public authority to which the application could be transferred. It would, however, be the responsibility of the PIO, if an appeal is made against his decision to establish that he made reasonable efforts to find out the particulars of the concerned public authority "(emphasis added). Further it is also elucidated that "If no part of the information sought, is available with it but is scattered with more than one other public authorities, the Public Information Officer should inform the applicant that information is not available with the public authority and that the applicant should make separate applications to the concerned public authorities for obtaining information from them. It may be noted that the Act requires the supply of such information only which already exists and is held by the public authority to collect the information from various public authorities to supply it to the applicant. At the same time, since the information is not related t any one another particular public authority. It is not the case where application should be transferred under sub-section (3) of Section 6 of the Act. It is pertinent to note that sub-section (3) refers to 'another public authority' and not to 'other public authorities'. Use of singular form in the Act in this regard is important to note "(emphasis added)".
